Uncertainty reigned over Fed's rate cuts as comments from Fed officials and US macro data pushed back the possibility of a rate cut. University of Michigan's consumer sentiment index dipped to a 6-month low at 67.4 in May'24 (est. 76) from 77.2 in Apr'24. Consumers' 1Y and 5Y inflation expectations edged up to 3.5% (from 3.2%) and 3.1% (from 3%) respectively, suggesting some de-anchoring of inflation expectations. US CPI report due later in the week will be a key monitorable for the markets. In UK, GDP growth bounced back to 0.6% in Q1CY2024, beating estimates of 0.4% growth. CPI in China rose to 0.3% (est. 0.2%) from 0.1% in Mar'24, signalling some improvement in domestic demand. Deflation in PPI also moderated to 2.5% from 2.8% in Mar'24. On domestic front, IIP growth eased to 4.9% in Mar'24 from 5.6%. Focus now shifts to CPI data due today. We estimate CPI at 4.7%.

- Global stocks ended higher. Hang Seng rose the most by 2.3%, ahead of key earnings report. Stocks elsewhere traded in a narrow range as cautiousness prevailed before the release of US CPI data. Investors also remained prudent amidst reports of longer tenor bond sales in China. Sensex rose by 0.4%, led by gains in power and oil & gas stocks. However, it is trading lower today, while Asian stocks are trading mixed.

- Global yields closed mixed. US 10Y yield firmed up as inflation expectation index remained sticky. Apart from this, comments of some Fed officials pushing the rate cut in CY25, also impacted investor sentiments. Japan's 10Y yield fell a tad eyeing moderation in PPI print. India's 10Y yield closed stable. It is trading at the same level today, but some upward bias exists ahead of CPI print.
